

In Spring, 2004, we taught a Graduate design studio and assembled an interdisciplinary team with professional advisors to enter the Western Maryland Welcome Center Sustainable Technology Showcase Design Competition, sponsored by Maryland Congressman Roscoe Bartlett. Students worked in teams and performed quantitative analysis of energy and water balance, as well as a construction cost estimate, for a technical report as part of their submission. One of the teams was awarded an honorable mention.

